

Session title:

Lone Offender Terrorist Actors

Session speakers:

Molly Amman-Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)

Session summary:

This presentation will educate audience members regarding early identification of would-be lone offender terrorist actors with an eye toward preventing them from escalating to kinetic attack. Specifically, empirical research has established correlational risk factors and warning behaviors which are observed to correspond to subsequent acts of targeted violence. These will be briefed and placed into context via a single, cohesive case study, to explain when and how public safety stakeholders make take advantage of these early warnings to identify and mitigate threats.
